Quote of the Day

Hope sees the invisible, feels the intangible, achieves the impossible.

Thought for the Day

"You don't have to change that much for it to make a great deal of difference. A few simple disciplines can have a major impact on how your life works out in the next 90 days, let alone in the next 12 months or the next 3 years."

Joke of the Week

A math professor, John, is having problems with his sink so he calls a plumber. The plumber comes over and quickly fixes the sink. The professor is happy until he gets the bill. He tells the plumber, "How can you charge this much? This is half of my pay check." But he pays it anyways.

The plumber tells him, "Hey, we are looking for more plumbers. You could become a plumber and triple your salary. Just make sure you say you only made it to 6th grade, they don't like educated people."

The professor takes him up on the offer and becomes a plumber. His salary triples and he doesn't have to work nearly as hard. But the company makes an announcement that all of their plumbers must get a 7th grade education. So they all go to night school.

On the first day of night school they all attend math class. The teacher wants to gauge the class so he asks John, "What is the formula for the area of a circle?"

John walks up to the board and is about to write the formula when he realizes he has forgotten it. So he begins to attempt to derive the formula, filling the board with complicated mathematics. He ends up figuring out it is negative pi times radius squared. He thinks the minus doesn't belong so he starts over, but again he comes up with the same equation. After staring at the board for a minute he looks out at the other plumbers and sees that they are all whispering, "Switch the limits on the integral!"

News from Geof's Bird's Nest

If you go down to South Island 3 hours after low tide and walk around on the sand flats you will see many different shore birds wading around. This year we have a Eurasian Curlew, the large billed bird in the photo. These birds are super rare in Australia with one seen in Broome and another in Bunbury. As you can see it is hanging out with a gang of smaller birds with long bills who are Whimbrels. There are 70 Whimbrels on South Island and they come here every year from October to April. April is when all these waders fly off to Russia to breed in the melted Tundra which becomes a soggy mass of bugs during our winter.

Save the Ocean

Use Fewer Plastic Products

Plastics that end up as ocean debris contribute to habitat destruction and entangle and kill tens of thousands of marine animals each year. To limit your impact, carry a reusable water bottle, store food in non disposable containers, bring your own cloth tote or other reusable bag when shopping, and recycle whenever possible.

Help Take Care of the Beach

Whether you enjoy diving, surfing, or relaxing on the beach, always clean up after yourself. Explore and appreciate the ocean without interfering with wildlife or removing rocks and coral. Go even further by encouraging others to respect the marine environment or by participating in local beach cleanups.

Influence Change in Your Community

Research the ocean policies of public officials before you vote or contact your local representatives to let them know you support marine conservation projects. Consider patronizing restaurants and grocery stores that offer only sustainable seafood, and speak up about your concerns if you spot a threatened species on the menu or at the seafood counter.

Travel the Ocean Responsibly

Practice responsible boating, kayaking, and other recreational activities on the water. Never throw anything overboard, and be aware of marine life in the waters around you. If you're set on taking a cruise for your next vacation, do some research to find the most eco-friendly option

CURRENT GONG GONG ACOUSTIC TAGGING RESEARCH

As part of our ongoing commitment to the sustainable management of the Cocos (Keeling) Islands fish and marine invertebrate stocks, the Department of Fisheries WA, is studying the habitat associations and movement of Gong Gong (Lambis lambis).

This study involves tagging 20 Gong Gong with acoustic transmitters and tracking their movement over a 12 month period using an array of acoustic receivers (listening stations).

In February the Department installed 40 acoustic receivers in an area south of Home Island on the eastern side of the lagoon. The area and location of the receivers was finalised in discussion with the Cocos-Malay community and their involvement is very much appreciated. Each receiver is marked by a reflective surface float and will be in place until approximately February 2018. The Department will come back and talk to the community about the results of the project in 2018.

The Department is asking the community to be careful boating in the area of the receivers, so as not to damage them. For further information or to report a boat strike with the equipment please contact Scott Evans on (08) 9203 0183 or scott.evans@fish.wa.gov.au

Actual study area with acoustic receiver locations (yellow dots)  Kawasan penyelidikan dengan tempat acoustic receiver (titik kuning)	IMPORTANT For accurate data collection, it is very important that the acoustic receivers and tagged Gong Gong are not moved or interfered with for the duration of the study. If a tagged Gong Gong is found by fishers, we kindly request it be returned to the water where caught. PENTING Untuk pengumpulan data yang pasti, penting untuk 'acoustic receivers' dan Gong Gong yang telah di tag tidak dipindahkan atau diganggu sepanjang penyelidikan ini. Kalau Gong Gong didapati, kita berharap dia dikembalikan ke laut dimana didapati.	 Acoustic receiver (listening station) with surface (left) and subsurface (right) floats Acoustic receiver (stesen pendengaran) dengan buih (left) dan buih subsurface (right)

PENYELIDIKAN 'ACOUSTIC TAGGING' UNTUK GONG GONG MASA INI

Sebahagian daripada tanggungjawab kami yang berterusan untuk pengurusan berlanjutan jumlah ikan dan binatang laut di Pulu Cocos (Keeling), Department of Fisheries WA, akan menyelidik kawasan tempat tinggal dan pergerakan Gong Gong (Lambis lambis).

Penyelidikan ini akan melibatkan meletak tag kepada 20 Gong Gong dengan 'acoustic transmitters' dikawasan selatan dari Home Island disebelah utara lagoon. Kawasan dan tempat 'receivers' ditetapkan daripada pembincangan dengan masyarakat melayu Cocos dan kerjasama mereka sangat dihargai. Setiap receiver ditandakan dengan buih temambang yang menyalah dan akan mula diletak kira-kira February 2018. Department akan kembali lagi dan berbincang dengan masyarakat tentang hasil projek ini dalam 2018.

Department ini berharap masyarakat berhati-hati membawa sekoci dalam kawasan receivers ini, supaya tidak menyebabkan kerosakkan nanti.

Untuk keterangan selanjutnya atau melaporkan receiver yang kenak terajang silahkan hubungi Scott Evans dinomor (08) 9203 0183 atau scott.evans@fish.wa.gov.au

Healthy Living Tips

Nature is fuel for the soul

Just like you learned in school, trees use photosynthesis to turn carbon dioxide into the oxygen we need to breathe. In just one year, the presence of trees saved 850 lives and prevented 670,000 cases of acute respiratory symptoms, according to new research published in the journal Environmental Pollution. Trees remove pollution from the air, making it healthier for us to take into our lungs.

Air pollution can create some major health problems. Highly polluted air has been shown to cause a burning effect in eyes, noses and throats. Polluted air also makes it harder for those with asthma to breathe. Some toxic chemicals that can live in the air -- like benzene and vinyl chloride -- are highly toxic. They can even cause cancer, birth defects, long term injury to the lungs, as well as brain and nerve damage. Breathing fresh air that plants produce lowers the chances of coming into contact with these scary pollutants.

It can boost your immune system.

The smells in fresh air bust stress and increase happiness.

Even walking through a park or your own backyard can help you feel calmer and happier when you catch a whiff of freshly cut grass. And while rain may put a damper on your outdoor plans, we love nothing more than the scent of a downpour, according to Smithsonian magazine. The smell reminds us of the color green and may be linked with the growth of both the plants and animals that we need to eat, which could explain why it smells so good to us.

We now have the possibility to create a community based plastics recycling program on the Islands.

I have the plans to build very low cost, small scale, proven machines to recycle the plastics waste generated on the islands into functional, usable items.

We have the ability to now easily build and operate this technology.

I am looking for people interested in helping me make the machines for both Home Island and West Island.

We will need a place to assemble them, a place to operate them, a welder willing to help, a drill press, some scrap metal, and perhaps even source some of the equipment needed on the Islands from peoples private store of spares or old items no longer used.

I invite our whole community and council, and any other organisations on or off the CKI to support us in any way possible to make this happen. Whether it be materials, money, your time, or a location to use.

I will be happy to help coordinate this effort, all the resources and people and tie it all together and seed it with startup funding and invite everyone to join in.

The object is to insert the numbers in the boxes to satisfy only one condition: each row, column and group of squares enclosed by the bold lines must contain the digits 1 through 9 exactly once. The rules for different size and shape puzzles are pretty much identical. The different size puzzles simply require a different set of numbers.
